Game at the lesson

Hi, I'm Galya if you forgot. Today we will play game that called What's my problem?

The simple rules of it:

Cards with some different life problems are lying at the table. It can be any fictional problem with health, job, family, etc. You take one card and, not looking, put it opposite yourself. Further you will talk by round and ask each other "yes or no" questions to learn, where you could go and what you would need to do to get rid of this problem. But others mustn't call the problem itself. And your task is to guess what your problem is writing at your card.

Problems:

1. I lost my passport at the Brazilian Carnival
2. I have swollen eye after a fight
3. I picked up chickenpox
4. My boss made me redo the finance report
5. I broke my leg
6. I broke mom's favorite vase
7. My favorite anime series is ended
8. My teddy bear is torn
9. I lost my lens in the bathroom
10. My hair dyed green instead of ashen
11. I broke my cellphone
12. I got lost in the wood without a navigator
13. My salary was delayed
14. My younger sister tore homework notebook
15. My girlfriend left me for another man
